OUR CANDIDATE. Hon. Granville H. Oury was nominated by the Democratic Territorial convention at Phoenix, Tuesday, for Delegate to Congress. There was no need of the formality of a ballot, he was the unanimous choice of the Democracy in all sections of the Territory, and was elected to carry the banner of the party at the ensuing contest by acclamation. This was indeed a flattering compliment, and shows that the people appreciate the worth of a true public servant who labored earnestly for the best interests of the Territory, during his trial term in the national legislature. The mest brilliant parliamentarian, or ablest debator in the country could perform no real, lasting service for his constituents during his first Congressional term. It takes that length of time to get acquainted with the run of business, and the leaders of the House, who really shape legislation. Mr. Oury during his term has performed giant services for the Territory. He has done more to protect settlers from the vengence of sayages than all the representatives Arizona has ever had in Washington, put together. He has made for himself a reputation in Congress among the best men of both parties that will be invaluable to his constituents in the way of obtaining material assistance from the federal legislature at the ensuing session. The experiment of sending new men to Washington at the opening of each new Congress is foolish in the extreme. Montana has kept Maginnis in Congress since 1868 and he bas now more influence in shaping legislation than the representatives of some New England states. Mr. Oury is the only Territorial delegate besides Mr. Maginnis, who has exerted an influence in Congress. Would it not then be the height of foolishness to send a new and untried man? Believing so, the Democracy of the Territory with singular unanimity, have placed him again before the people for their endorsement, and the most visionary Republican in the Territory has not the least idea that he can be beaten at the polls.

Mr. Oury has been more than a quarter of a century in the Territory. He braved the loneliness of the plains, the torrid heat of the desert, and the danger of savage Indians, when Arizona was yet a terra incognita to the American people. Side by side with many of our old pioneers he fought back the savages. Side by side with many a roughfisted miner he delved for the precious metals in many a dreary gulch and lonely hill-side. Wherever was encountered, whether in the mine, the camp, or the plain, he was always found a man, ever ready and willing to lend a hand to some less fortunate neighbor. Such is the man the Democracy of Arizona present for the suffrages of the people of the Territory for the highest elective office within their gift. It will not do to barely elect him. He must be sent back to Washington with such a majority that the party of "moral ideas" and pro-Chinese sympathies will not mistake the voice of Arizona.

CENSUS.

Cochise county has, without doubt, suffered in an incomplete taking of the census. It is nonsense to assert that Tombstone has only 5,000 inhabitants, when, in fact, there are fully 7,000 people within the limits of the city; and no one can be made to believe that the county as a whole, numbers less than 15,000. Pima county, with only the city of Tucson and the community of Calabasas where population is concentrated, foots up a census of over 17,000 inhabitants, while Cochise county, with the towns of Tombstone, Charleston, Contention, Benson, Bisbee, Dos Cabezas and Wilcox, and a host of mining camps and railroad stations, falls behind Pima over one-third. Surely, there has been great neglect somewhere. We are informed that the census of 1880 showed a larger number of inhabitants in some portions of the county than the present census, and yet there is not a resident but knows that there is no section of the county where the population has not been steadily and materially on the increase during the last two years. Perhaps the Census Marshal did the best he could, but, however it has occurred, the result works great injustice. Upon this census will be based the apportionment of representation, in the Legislative Assembly, to each county, and Cochise loses her rights and is shorn of protective strength, in the matter of law-making power. The people of this county have so many valuable interests to guard that this defective census merges into a possible lamentable misfortune.
